HEAD COACH ED SCHILLING

HARD WORK

FAMILY

CollegiateInsider.com
CONFERENCE

BEST MCC RECORD EVER

MOST WINS
SINCE 1992-93

During our last four years here at Wright State University we have been blessed to see much positive growth in our program both on and off the basketball court. Most publicized has been our increase of on the court wins each of the past three seasons. Getting off to the best start in school history last season (9-1) and winning the most MCC games in W.S.U. history was certainly significant. However, my coaching staff and I are equally as excited about our team grade point average being over 2.9 and the fact that all of our seniors graduated on time and that all of our players in the current program are on course to graduate within four years.

This victories, grade point averages and graduations are certainly a tribute to the quality of the young men in our program, but the enhancement of successful life skills in our student-athletes lives is what really matters in the long run. When a player graduates from our basketball program our most important goal is that he is prepared to be successful regardless of the field of endeavor. We hope that our program will foster the vital skills of self-discipline, sacrifice, teamwork, integrity, responsibility and caring. The greatest victory we as a coaching staff can be a part of is seeing our players successfully and lovingly lead their families and then to passionately excel in a chosen work environment.

Sure we are excited about the 2001-02 season but not just because we want to continue our steady on the court improvement. We want to continue to grow as men and to positively represent Wright State University this season and for decades to come.

My sincere thank you goes out to the many people that are investing in the lives of our players. We believe that winning is a way of life not just the numbers that appear on the scoreboard.

Wishing you all God's blessings for a great 2001-02,

Coach Ed Schilling

Ed Schilling

Head basketball coach Ed Schilling has restored winning to the Wright State University basketball program. Upon completion of the 2000-01 season, the Raiders had enjoyed their most successful campaign of the Schilling era. The fifth-year mentor guided his squad to the most overall wins by a Raider team in eight years and the highest regular season finish in Wright State's history in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference.

Turning around losing basketball situations is nothing new for Schilling. As the youngest head high school coach in the country in 1988, he took over the program at Western Boone in Thorntown, Indiana. In his third and final season, he led his team to the most single season wins in school history. This turnaround caught the attention of the administration at Logansport High School and Schilling was hired as their head basketball coach in 1991.

At Logansport, he improved the team gradually each of his four seasons while coaching in arguably the most competitive prep conference in the nation. The North Central Conference (NCC), also known as the "Conference of Champions," has received national attention for its outstanding players and legendary coaches. Logansport plays its home games in a 6,000 seat arena, the smallest facility in the NCC.

Schilling did not disappoint the Logansport community in rebuilding their basketball program. In his final two seasons, his teams won back-to-back Sectional Championships while compiling the most wins at Logansport in more than 20 years. Besides proving once again that he can restore winning ways to downtrodden basketball programs, Schilling also honed his skills in public relations and program marketing as he hosted two basketball radio shows.

Throughout his stellar seven-year coaching career in Indiana high schools, Schilling spent his summers at the famed Five-Star Basketball Camp in Pennsylvania. The Five-Star Camp is the nation's unchallenged hotbed for high school playing and coaching talent. Schilling first became a member of the "Five-Star Basketball Family" as a prep player when he attended the camp for two summers. He continued his association with Five-Star as a college counselor during his playing days at Miami University of Ohio. After graduation from Miami in 1988, and as he launched his high school coaching career, Schilling became a station master and head resident coach at Five-Star.

It is at Five-Star where Schilling caught the watchful eye of UMass head basketball coach John Calipari. When Calipari had a staff opening in 1995, he immediately contacted Schilling and brought him on board as an assistant coach. Schilling's first and only year at UMass was a memorable one as the Minutemen rolled to a 35-2 record and advanced to the coveted Final Four. UMass also was ranked #1 in the nation for 10 consecutive weeks and produced the National Player-of-the-Year, Marcus Camby.

Before the euphoria of the record-breaking season at UMass was felt by Schilling, Calipari accepted the position of vice president of basketball operations/head basketball coach with the NBA's New Jersey Nets in the spring of 1996. Calipari recognized Schilling's coaching talent and rewarded his valuable contributions to the UMass program by asking Schilling to join him as his assistant coach in New Jersey. Schilling's meteoric rise in the coaching profession was chronicled in Sports Illustrated as he became the only coach ever to advance from the high school coaching ranks to the Final Four and finally to the bench of an NBA team in a period of 310 days.

Schilling's first duty as a member of the Nets coaching staff was to work out players such as Kobe Bryant and Kerry Kittles in preparation for the NBA draft. Additionally, he worked out members of the Nets as he scouted potential players in the NBA Summer League in Los Angeles. Once the NBA season was underway, Schilling assisted Calipari in all areas of team preparation, while continuing to work with players on individual skill development.

Although Schilling enjoyed coaching in the best basketball league in the world alongside of Calipari, his coaching mentor and friend, he missed the opportunity to work with young men in a situation where he can impact their lives along with their basketball careers. Schilling has always viewed his job as having greater responsibility than just teaching the skills of the game he loves. He believes that a young man's personal, social and academic welfare is of greater importance than his performance on the court. For this reason, he did not hesitate to accept the offer to become the head basketball coach at Wright State University.

When Wright State came calling in the spring of 1997, Schilling knew that this was the opportunity for which he had always prepared. At Wright State, Schilling saw the potential to build the kind of quality college basketball program that he always envisioned. A program that would be highly competitive on the court while attracting student-athletes in the fullest sense.

Schilling's enthusiastic and energetic coaching style is perfectly suited for Wright State, a progressive and vibrant university, which has become one of Ohio's most respected institutions of higher learning. Schilling has implemented at Wright State his previously successful formula of turning around basketball programs. In the Schilling system, there are no quick fixes or shortcuts, only a focused and industrious effort on the part of the players and coaches alike. This approach has provided steady progress and improvement.

In Schilling's first season with the Raiders, expectations on the part of many were low as he inherited a team that had won only seven games the previous year. Schilling's make-shift squad managed to begin the season with three straight wins on their way to a surprising 10 wins and an upset of MCC Champion, Illinois-Chicago, in the first round of the post-season conference tournament.

The next two years saw Schilling and his staff working diligently to recruit and develop the team that would be responsible for last season's turnaround year. In the process, Schilling's team has not failed to provide exciting and competitive basketball for Wright State fans. His teams are characterized by stingy combination defenses and unselfish, team-oriented offense. On the floor, the Raiders reflect the passion and intensity of their head coach. Wright State fans have become accustomed to seeing a hustling, fighting, "never-say-die" performance from Schilling-coached teams.

While he was carefully placing the building blocks of his program in place, Schilling's team brought Raider fans to the brink of hysteria on December 30, 1999, when they defeated then sixth ranked Michigan State, 53-49, in front of a near-capacity crowd in the Nutter Center. In a win described by many basketball commentators as the most significant upset of the decade, the Raiders demonstrated that the Schilling program was headed in the right direction. Michigan State went on to capture the NCAA Championship later that year.

With all of the elements in place, the Raiders entered the 2000-01 season poised for success. The Schilling program was once again on schedule as the Raiders began the season with a 9-1 record, the best Division I start in school history. Led by seniors Kevin Melson and Bruno Petersons, the Raiders posted an 18-11 overall record and an 8-6 mark in the MCC. The Raiders knocked off MCC rival UW-Milwaukee in the opening round of the post-season conference tournament to set up a meeting with league champion Butler University in the semifinals. This promised to be a terrific game as the two teams had split their regular season contests with each team winning at home. The Raiders lost a hard-fought eight-point game after leading at halftime. Butler went on to win the MCC Championship and advanced to the second round of the NCAA tournament.

Camp Experience

Head Resident Coach and Lecturer at Five-Star Basketball Camp

As disappointed as the Raiders might have been on the final night of last season, the future is equally bright for them in 2001-02. With nine players returning and Schilling's unrelenting passion and focused leadership, this promises to be yet another successful season for Wright State. The Schilling era of quality basketball continues.

Away from the basketball court, Schilling is committed to helping his players personally and academically. A man of high integrity and strong family values, Schilling is involved in ministry work around the world with Champions for Christ. He and his wife Shawn are the parents of two children, Christina and Eddie.

Quotes on Schilling...

"He is one of the best basketball minds that I have ever been around. He is solid in every area, most importantly his own life."

John Calipari, Head Coach
University of Memphis

"I first met Coach Schilling while at UMass, and he and his family immediately took me in as a part of their family. He is a teacher above all else."

Inus Norville
Former Raider

"Ed is a fantastic individual and a great young man. He brings expertise to every facet of the game. He is a class person who will be the next John Calipari or Rick Pitino in that he can recruit and communicate so very well."

Howard Garfinkel, Director
Five-Star Basketball Camp

"Ed is a great teacher and a tremendous motivator and communicator, which is so vital these days. Wright State is the perfect place for him."

Dick Vitale, Commentator
ABC/ESPN

"I encourage my players to go where they will see themselves grow as a person and a player, and under coach Schilling, Kevin (Melson) got that. Ed is one of the best young coaches in college today and a quality guy—he makes me wish I was playing again. There is something special beginning to form at Wright State, and Kevin wanted to be a part of it."

Schoolcraft Junior College

Ed Schilling participated in a camp during a summer trip to Venice, Italy.

Thad Burton holds the Nutter Center record with 22 rebounds...

"Coach Schilling and his staff were amazing with their teaching techniques, and I believe that enabled me to become one of the best rebounders in the nation as a senior, and it helped me learn the importance of a college degree and pursue a pro basketball career."

Will Rey Assistant Coach Fifth Year

Experience. That's what Will Rey brings to the Wright State men's basketball coaching staff. Upon being named head coach at WSU, Ed Schilling, one of the youngest head coaches in Division I recognized instantly that Rey would be invaluable to him as his right-hand man. At WSU, Rey has helped Schilling with every aspect of the program but has concentrated his efforts on player development, on-the-floor coaching, game preparation, scheduling and recruiting.

For three years prior to joining Schilling at WSU, Rey served as the head coach at Saint Mary's University of Minnesota, a Division III basketball program. In his first year at SMU, he quickly turned the team's fortunes in the right direction by recording the most conference wins in nine years. For the next two years, Rey recruited and coached teams comprising of mostly freshmen and sophomores as he set the building blocks of the program in place.

Rey's career in college coaching began in 1985 when he was hired by head coach Jim Crews as his top assistant at the University of Evansville (Indiana). During the four years that Rey assisted at Evansville, the Purple Aces amassed a 70-45 record while advancing to the second round of the NCAA Tournament in 1989 and the second round of the NIT in 1988. The 1989 Evansville team finished the season with a Top 25 National Ranking and a 35-game winning streak at home.

In the spring of 1989, Loyola University came calling and Rey accepted the head coaching position in his hometown of Chicago. During his five-year tenure as Loyola's mentor the Ramblers posted significant wins over programs such as Notre Dame, Purdue, Wisconsin, Northwestern, St. Louis and Dayton. Rey gradually improved the program's win-loss record during his first three seasons. In his third season, the team recorded back-to-back wins over Big Ten opponents for the first time in 24 years and fashioned a seven-game winning streak, which was the best in five years.

Player development has always been one of Rey's strengths. While at Loyola, he coached first-team All-MCC players, Keith Gailes and Keir

Rogers. At Evansville, he helped recruit and develop future NBA players Dan Godfread (Timberwolves, Rockets), Scott Haffner (Heat, Hornets) along with MCC standout Marty Simmons (Jazz, CBA). At WSU, Rey focuses on offensive skill development and pays special attention to the post players.

Rey, who was born in Havana, Cuba, and raised in Chicago, had a combined record of 180-104 and won three league titles and 11 tournament championships during his prep coaching days at three Chicago-area Catholic High Schools. As a high school educator, he served as a guidance counselor and taught Physical Education and World History.

A sought-after speaker in clinic and banquet circuits, Rey has authored coaching articles in publications such as Winning Hoops, Van Coleman's Roundball Review, Five-Star Basketball Camp Drill Book, and Five-Star Basketball Camp's Top Lectures. Rey's teaching videotapes for players and coaches, Low Post Play and Playing the Point, which he did with Ed Schilling, are top-sellers nationwide.

Along with having lectured and coached at summer basketball camps throughout the country for more than 20 years, Rey was an instructor, lecturer, and administrator at the nationally-renowned Five-Star Basketball Camp in Pennsylvania from 1980 through 1997.

Rey is a graduate of Holy Cross High School in Chicago. He was awarded a master's degree in Guidance and Counseling from Concordia University of Chicago in 1985 and a bachelor's degree from Northeastern Illinois University of Chicago in 1976. He and his wife, Diane, are involved with the adult faith formation program and helping lead a couples' scripture group study at St. Luke Catholic Church in Beavercreek, and they are the proud parents of three children, Christina, Jacqueline and Robert.

Christina, Diane, Robert, Will and Jacqueline Rey.

Rod Foster Assistant Coach Fourth Year

When asked, he'll shy away from the attention, but at one time, everyone called him "Rocket" and with good reason. Now though he prefers to be called "coach."

But that transition hasn't taken away from his love and enthusiasm for the game of basketball. He walks in with the same fire that made him an All-American for the UCLA Bruins in the early 1980s and in the NBA with the Phoenix Suns. You never know when an impromptu pick-up game or dunk exhibition will break out after a practice, and Foster is usually in the mix.

"The addition of Rod to our staff a couple years ago not only helped with the recruiting and coaching but also with the team chemistry, that is so important," Schilling said. "He relates to recruits, players, fellow coaches and everyone with the same genuine concern. He makes the people around him feel good."

After his playing days, the 40-year-old traded his playing shoes for a coach's whistle. He coached with Athletes In Action as well as at The Master's College (Los Angeles, CA) before making the move to Wright State.

Clay Nunley Assistant Coach Third Year

Although young in years, Clay Nunley brings a diverse background to the basketball program as he enters his third season as an assistant coach.

Upon graduation from Providence Day in Charlotte, North Carolina, where as a senior captain he led his team to a 20-win campaign, Clay began a four-year career at Goucher (MD) College.

During his time with the Gophers, he was a two-year captain as his team took two trips to the NCAA Tournament and were twice ranked among the nation's Top Ten Division III squads. Nunley was a starter on a 23-6 team, which represents the most wins in school history.

Graduating Phi Beta Kappa in 1998 with a B.A. in Communications, Nunley continues to serve his alma mater through his election to a three-year term on the Goucher College Board of Trustees.

During his high school and college careers, Clay cut his teeth in the world of coaching through stints at the prestigious Five-Star Camp as well as sessions at the University of Virginia, Davidson College and UNC-Charlotte.

While working on graduate courses at Wright State University during the 1998-99 season, Nunley served as a volunteer with the men's program before officially joining the staff in July 1999.

The coaching profession is replete with individuals touting years of experience, but Clay has demonstrated enormous strides during his brief tenure. Among his varied responsibilities are recruiting coordinator, off-campus recruiting, monitoring compliance, editing the Raiders Den newsletter and handling film exchange.

With his endless quest for knowledge, tireless efforts and staunch loyalty among his many noteworthy attributes, Clay's dedication to the growth of Wright State's basketball fortunes is likewise indicative of a bright future awaiting him in the coaching ranks.

"I believe that Coach Nunley has the potential to be a terrific basketball coach. He has a proven record of academic success and a work ethic that is of the highest level. His passion for the game of basketball and his insatiable thirst to improve on a daily basis greatly contributes to the quality of our staff and program. I feel fortunate that Coach Nunley is on our team."

Mike Dahlem

Administrative Assistant/ Academic Coordinator Fourth Year

With more than a quarter century of academic and basketball experience under his belt, Mike Dahlem enters his fourth season at Wright State.

While working on his undergraduate degree (a B.A. in history along with secondary school social studies certification), Mike coached six squads at the recreation level over the course of two seasons.

Mike's 17-year high school career began in 1978, upon the completion of his master's degree (M.Ed. in instruction) at The Johns Hopkins University.

At this point, Mike joined the staff of the legendary, late Coach Ray Mullis, who remains the Baltimore metropolitan area's leader in career victories with 625. Cardinal Gibbons High School, also Mike's alma mater, excelled during his years there as an assistant, garnering almost 400 wins and countless championships while playing a national-caliber schedule. Gibbons was consistently ranked in the local "Top Ten" polls throughout these years. During that stretch, over 50 players went on to play at the collegiate level, with over 20 of them receiving Division I scholarships. The most well-known of these players include "McDonald's All-Americans" Quintin Dailey (San Francisco/NBA), Steve Wojciechowski (Duke/current Duke assistant coach), and Rodney Walker (Syracuse/Maryland). Mike also served as the head junior varsity coach for 10 seasons, accumulating 200 victories (winning over 76 percent of his games), plus six league and six tournament titles. One of these championship seasons saw Mike assisted by Dwayne Purnell, former Gibbons star and younger brother of current Dayton head coach Oliver Purnell.

Upon leaving Gibbons, Dahlem moved to the collegiate level at Saint Mary's University (MN) where he worked for two years with current Raider assistant coach Will Rey. Mike's experiences also include 15 years and countless sessions at the nationally-renowned Five-Star Camp, where he served as both coach and league commissioner.

Mike's duties at Wright State include helping to monitor the overall and daily academic progress of the players, contributing to the logistics of many organizational aspects of the men's basketball program, and co-directing the Raiders growing, successful summer hoop camps.

Christina Brame

Administrative Assistant First Year

Christina Brame is entering her first year in this position but spent the last three years as a manager for the men's basketball team. The South Carolina native handles most of the day-to-day activities of the men's and women's basketball programs, including team and recruiting travel arrangements, camp administration and office management. As a recent Wright State graduate and former team manager, Brame also helps in the areas of game management.

*Dr. Goldenberg
President*

*Dr. Abrahamowicz
Vice President for Student Affairs and Enrollment Services*

On April 9, 1998, Kim Goldenberg, M.D., became the fifth president of Wright State University. He began his career as a test engineer for Grumman Aerospace Corporation working on NASA's first manned lunar landing. Dr. Goldenberg has graduate degrees in bioengineering and medicine. He served as dean of the Wright State University School of Medicine from 1990-1998. During his tenure as dean, the school achieved the top national academic award for community service.

During his tenure as president, the university has become the number one choice in the nation by valedictorians from the Miami Valley. Wright State also has become one of Ohio's top three public universities in innovative research programs and its nationally recognized arts and cultural programs attract more than one million visitors each year. Dr. Goldenberg has been a consultant to Congress and the White House and provides leadership on numerous boards in the state and region.

Dr. Goldenberg and his wife Shelley have three grown children.

Dr. Dan Abrahamowicz is vice president for student affairs and enrollment services at Wright State University.

A native of Lorain, Ohio, Dr. Abrahamowicz was appointed in 1996 as vice president. He oversees a variety of university departments including Athletics, Undergraduate Admissions, Campus Recreation, Career Services, Disability Services, Financial Aid, Public Safety, Residence Services, Student Health Services, Student Life, Student Union and Word Processing.

Dr. Abrahamowicz received the B.A. degree magna cum laude from Cleveland State University in 1972 and the M.A. degree from The Ohio State University in 1974. He received the Ph.D. degree with an emphasis in counseling and human services from the University of Toledo in 1985. Dr. Abrahamowicz and his wife, Kelly, have one daughter, Katie.

Academics

Academic Support Services

Wright State is proud of the academic accomplishments of its athletes. Last year, WSU student-athletes posted an average GPA of 3.0 all three quarters and the men's basketball team had a GPA of 2.9.

The athletic department staff includes an academic advisor, whose primary responsibility is advising and counseling approximately 260 WSU athletes. The advisor is here to help you do your best as a student-athlete.

The advisor:

- knows the courses required
- knows the faculty and instructors for your courses
- may communicate with faculty, staff and other advisors on your behalf
- respects your interests
- helps you to choose a major
- encourages you to plan and think about the future.

Academic Reporting

During the year, the academic advisor meets with student-athletes on a regular basis to track their accomplishments. Men's basketball players are assigned an assistant coach who meets with them once a week to talk about classes. At the end of the academic year, the advisor completes an annual report on the academic progress of all student-athletes. This report is given to the coaches and the athletic director.

Working With Faculty and Staff

The athletic advisor also serves as a liaison between Wright State's athletic and academic communities, coordinating your interests with those of faculty and university staff. The advisor tries to establish a personal rapport with your instructors, learning their point of view and ensuring that you stay focused on educational as well as athletic objectives.

Resources for Student-Athletes

Wright State has a Student-Athletic Resource Center located in the basement of Rike Hall. The center includes computers as well as other research materials, and it is staffed by a member of the athletic department's academic advising office. Specialized tutoring can be arranged through the office to help you get through tough assignments. Your coaches will also take an active interest in your education. They may meet with you privately to discuss your academic career, and they provide study table time during road trips.

The University

Nestled just northeast of Dayton, Ohio, Wright State University is continuing the region's heritage of innovation, research and service, not to mention improving the quality of life for the entire Miami Valley. And the quality of life for Wright State students just gets better every year.

First of all, there's an academic major to fit every student's desire. The 16,000 students at Wright State can pursue more than 100 undergraduate and 46 graduate, professional and doctoral degrees through six colleges and three schools. There are doctoral programs in biomedical sciences, computer science and engineering, psychology and engineering, an interdisciplinary program that involves the Departments of Electrical, Biomedical/Human Factors and Mechanical/Materials Engineering. Professional doctoral degrees are available in medicine and psychology.

Looking for one of only two aerospace medicine programs in the country? You'll find it at Wright State. Looking for small, focused classes? You'll find them here, too. Wright State's 700 faculty and 1,300 staff members are dedicated to putting students and their needs first. You'll find a strong emphasis on hands-on learning outside the classroom. And you'll find a rich and diverse campus life.

That's because Wright State is a campus filled with energy. There are more than 150 student clubs and organizations—from fraternities and sororities to performing arts clubs; from the student-run WWSU radio station and the campus newspaper to student government.

The school's campus recreation program attracts more than 9,000 students every year to more than 30 sports and recreational activities. And the university attracts internationally acclaimed musicians every year through its Artist Series program. So, the sky truly is the limit at Wright State. And what could be more appropriate for a university named for the men who first taught the world to fly?

Did You Know?

- Wright State University is the school of choice among the Miami Valley's brightest students: nearly a third of the valedictorians in a recent poll chose Wright State as their first choice, more than any other school in the nation.
- This year, for the 22nd year, Wright State students earned top awards at the National Model United Nations, the largest intercollegiate conference of its kind, attracting students from all over the world.

- Eighty percent of Wright State's faculty members hold the most advanced degree possible in their fields.
- WSU's School of Medicine ranks in the top five percent of 126 medical schools in the percentage of graduates who practice primary care. It also ranks in the top 10 percent nationally in the number of minority and female graduates.

An Energetic Campus Community

Once you are a student at Wright State, you will be able to participate in a variety of activities. There are more than 150 student clubs and organizations, ranging from Greek organizations to performing arts groups and academic clubs.

You also may get involved in one of the many student-run media—WWSU radio station, The Guardian newspaper, Nexus literary journal—or organizations like Student Government or Student Activities Board. Campus recreation provides a variety of popular activities. More than 9,000 students participated in intramurals, fitness programs, outdoor recreation, adapted athletics/recreation and sports clubs last year. Wright State also attracts internationally acclaimed musicians through its Artist Series and at the Nutter Center arena.

The following recreational facilities are available:

- Fitness Center;
- Weight room;
- Indoor, Olympic-size pool;
- Indoor running track;
- Racquetball and squash courts;
- Several gyms;
- Outdoor tennis courts; and
- Outdoor playing fields.

A Diversified Campus

It is important in today's rapidly changing society to gain experience and skills in tolerance, understanding and respect for people from diverse cultural, racial and ethnic groups. At Wright State, students are encouraged to stretch themselves and take risks in learning about and appreciating differences. Our graduates are prepared to thrive in the complex society in which we live.

The Bolinga Black Cultural Resources Center

The Bolinga Black Cultural Resources Center promotes cultural diversity through programs, activities and forums that celebrate the African American experience. The center also functions as an office that addresses the gamut of academic, cultural and personal concerns of Wright State's African American students.

Asian/Hispanic/Native American Center

The Asian/Hispanic/Native American Center supports the academic, social and cultural needs of Asian, Hispanic and Native American students, faculty and staff. The center works to foster an appreciation and understanding of these diverse cultures, and offers student support services and advocacy on behalf of these students.

The Nutter Center

There's no place like home. And there's no place quite like the Nutter Center, home to the Wright State Raiders.

The Ervin J. Nutter Center is home to Wright State's men's and women's basketball and women's volleyball teams. But it's also the site of four basketball courts, a recreational running track, a multi-purpose room, more than 60,000 square feet of exhibit space and classrooms.

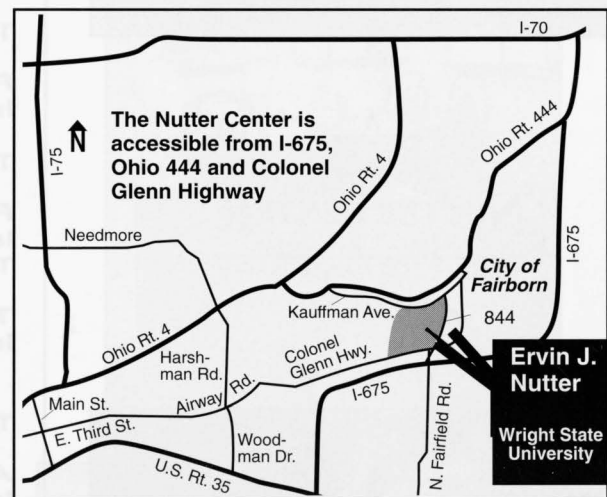

Just 11 years old, the Nutter Center has already had a facelift. Extensive remodeling included a new men's basketball team room, upgraded locker room, coaches' locker room and other improvements. And basketball games aren't the only times the Nutter Center rocks. The arena is one of the region's major entertainment locations. New Edition, The Who, Janet Jackson, Vince Gill, Stone Temple Pilots, Whitney Houston, Reba McIntire, Brooks & Dunn, Kiss, Guns 'N' Roses, Neil Diamond, Phish, John Mellencamp, Gloria Estefan and Boyz II Men, even Garth Brooks and Frank Sinatra are among the hundreds of entertainers who have performed on stage here.

And that doesn't even include Stars on Ice, the tour of Olympic Gymnasts, Ringling Brothers/Barnum & Bailey Circus, Lord of the Dance, Ice Capades, the Moscow Circus or the Dayton Bombers professional hockey team. There's almost always something happening at the Nutter Center—there's an event booked, on average, 280 days a year.

All in all, the Nutter Center has consistently ranked among the top 10 grossing venues in the country since its opening in 1990. Since 1996, the arena ranked third in the world in ticket sales for arenas its size.

No wonder the center has averaged nearly one million visitors a year since it opened.

The Mills Players Complex

Recently, Bob and Marcy Mills dedicated a new area for players and coaches to meet, talk and relax. This is just another result of Ed Schilling's philosophy of putting his players first.

The team room includes a study area with computer, leather couches, a stereo and a large-screen TV. This room is used for study periods, team meetings or just a place for players to go before games.

Beside storage space, the area also features a new locker room and shower room, including a new carpet that displays the Raider logo, wooden lockers with each players' picture, brass engraved name plates over their own space and a shower room.

A coaches' locker room is located across the hall as a place for the coaches to meet and dress for the games or practice. The Millses also made sure the women's team was included with a refurbishing of the women's locker room and new carpeting in the press room located between both locker rooms.

Raider Madness

Raider Madness is much more than a saying around Wright State and it's not just in March—it lasts the whole season long. It starts—well it never really ends—at the first practice when thousands of Raider fans are tired of talking about the upcoming season and can finally see for themselves the players who wear the green and gold. The tradition of WSU's Raider Madness has flourished each year under head coach Ed Schilling as he unveils his new squad in the main arena of the Nutter Center.

*Dr. Cusack
Director of Athletics*

Dr. Michael J. Cusack

Almost 20 years of innovation and growth has highlighted Dr. Michael J. Cusack's tenure as director of athletics at Wright State University since his appointment in April of 1982.

On the long list of accomplishments by Cusack has been Wright State's move to division in 1987 and the building of the 11,000-seat Ervin J. Nutter Center as well as Nischwitz Baseball Stadium and Alumni Soccer Field, all of which rank among the best athletic facilities in the Midwest. Also to Cusack's credit was the move to the Midwestern Collegiate Conference (now the Horizon League) and the development of the Life SKILLS program that enhances the student-athletes through a mixture of academics, community and university service as well as the typical athletic endeavors.

A native of Levittown, New York, Cusack earned his Bachelor of Science degree in physical education from Long Island University in 1964. He received his Master of Science degree in physical education from Queens College in 1969 and an Ed.D. degree in 1980 from New York University in administration of physical education and athletics.

Following graduation in 1969, Cusack spent nine years at Queens College as a member of the physical education faculty. He served as head baseball coach, assistant basketball coach and assistant athletic director.

His baseball teams had a combined record of 65-27 with teams appearing in postseason tournaments each of the four years he was coach. He was inducted into the Athletic Hall of Honor at Queens in December 1986.

Cusack and his wife, Dot, have five children and six grandchildren.

Training Staff

Tony Ortiz
Director of Athletic Training

Entering his 16th season with the Raiders is head trainer Tony Ortiz, who is responsible for the athletic health of over 250 student-athletes at Wright State.

Ortiz, a native of Lorain, Ohio, also acts as an instructor in the area of athletic training and is the program director for all student trainers at WSU. To stay on top of his profession, he continually attends and conducts sports medicine clinics throughout the country.

In addition to receiving many awards in his career, he was named the "Ohio Athletic Trainer of the Year" in 1989. Ortiz is the past president of the Ohio Athletic Trainers Association and received a National Award of Excellence last summer.

Certified by the National Athletic Trainers Association since 1978, Ortiz holds his master's degree in health education from Bowling Green State University.

Becky Bower
Athletic Trainer

Becky Bower was new to Wright State in 1999, but not to the local athletic training scene.

She worked in the Dayton area for 12 years as an athletic trainer at Stebbins High school (four years), and at Miami Valley Hospital Sports Medicine Center and Alter High School (eight years).

Michelle Sullivan
Athletic Trainer

Michelle Sullivan came on board in 1997 after graduating from Wright State.

She spent four years as a student trainer and works closely with all Raider sports, as well as overseeing the day-to-day activities of the training room.

Strength and Conditioning

The Wright State men's basketball team participates in a closely supervised and scientifically designed, year-round strength and conditioning program designed to improve the overall athleticism of each individual player. The Raider program uses strength training, medicine balls, plyometrics, agility drills and footwork drills to increase each athlete's strength, power, footwork, agility, jumping ability and basketball-specific conditioning. By participating in this program, the athletes are also much less likely to get injured, and if they are injured, the recovery time is shortened.

A battery of tests are used to measure each player's improvement. Each athlete is tested at the start of the season, prior to the season, after the season and at the end of the school year.

Weight Room

Matt Bekkedal was hired in January, 1999 as WSU's first strength coach and work began immediately to construct a new weight room dedicated to the student-athletes only.

Located on the second floor of the Nutter Center, the new room, opened in April, 1999, and includes a variety of free weights as well as Nebula brand machines. Also many bench stations, squat racks, jump enhancement machines and combo pulley systems highlight the room along with a TV/VCR, which allows student-athletes to watch game tape while working out.

Bekkedal, a certified athletic trainer and a certified strength coach, oversees the weight training of over 260 student-athletes closely and works with the coaching staffs to set up plans to help each individual.

With a special conditioning program set up for each student-athlete, the Raiders can use the extra strength in various ways on the court.

Media Coverage

The Best in Media Coverage

Wright State University athletics enjoys the best in all types of media coverage: three daily newspapers on a day-to-day basis, each of the four major television networks and a multitude of radio stations.

This year Raider fans and players can look forward to great coverage on WB26 and Fox Ohio with Marty Bannister and former Raider great Mark Vest.

The upcoming year is the fourth season for the Raider Radio Network which has grown now to three stations: WONE 980 AM in Dayton, WIZE 1340 AM in Springfield and WBKI 106.5 in Greenville. In addition, people from around the world can tune in via the Internet at www.wone.com with Chris Collins and Jon Ramey provide all of the action.

The Fairborn Daily Herald, the Dayton Daily News, and the Beavercreek News Current all cover the Raiders on a daily basis with game stories and feature articles. Other papers such as the Xenia Daily Gazette, the Springfield News-Sun and the Troy Daily News cover the Raiders regularly as well.

The city of Dayton can boast all four major networks—WKEF (NBC), WDTN (ABC), WHIO (CBS), WRGT (FOX) and WBDT (WB). All follow the Raiders closely at home and on the road.

Besides these outlets, student-run media organizations, WWSU 106.9 FM, and WSU's weekly newspaper, The Guardian, provide the latest information on all sports from a student's prospective.

The city of Dayton is in a unique situation. Besides Dayton's long history of fine media, within a two hour drive one can get to three other major media markets—Cincinnati, Columbus and Indianapolis.

Raiders in the Pros

Vitaly Potapenko

More and more former Raiders are showing up on rosters at every level of professional sports. The best known has been Vitaly Potapenko. The 6-10 forward was picked 12th overall in the 1996 NBA draft by the Cleveland Cavaliers and subsequently moved on to play with the Boston Celtics.

Head coach Ed Schilling brings his own NBA experience to Wright State University as he spent a season as an assistant coach with the New Jersey Nets under the guidance of John Calipari.

Also, currently playing in Europe, Bill Edwards has been called the best American player in the always-tough Italian League. He has represented the United States in the 1998 World Championship Games in Greece and helped them to a Bronze Medal finish. Edwards has also has spent time with the Cavs and the 76ers.

Thad Burton, from the 1997-98 Raiders, signed to play in France and is currently in Norway. Also playing across the ocean are Mike Nahar (Greece) and Delme Herriman (Holland), from WSU's NCAA team in 1993. Inus Norville has played in Norway since 1999. New pro Bruno Petersons is starting play in Latvia.

The Miami Valley

A Vibrant Community on the Move

The Dayton area is rich in cultural offerings, including the performing arts, historical parks, museums, cultural festivals and community celebrations. The university is located close to a wide array of restaurants and stores, with the region's largest shopping mall about a mile from the campus. A popular river corridor along the Great Miami River offers 26 scenic miles of walking, jogging and cycling trails.

The city of Dayton is a city of innovation. From the Wright brothers' first airplane to Charles F. Kettering's first self-starting automobile ignition system to the cash register and automated teller machine, Dayton has a rich heritage of invention and innovation.

Dayton has been the home for other notable Americans as well, including the poet Paul Laurence Dunbar and candy creator Esther Price. Phil Donahue and Erma Bombeck once lived across the street from one another in a Dayton suburb.

Dayton, Ohio Home of the Wright State Raiders

Today, the Dayton area is home to nearly one million people, and what a home it is. From historical sites to high technology research parks, Dayton offers its residents and visitors a wealth of opportunity. The city boasts more green space than any comparably sized city in the nation. Its 35,000 acres of parks and preserves are open for outdoor activities like cycling, walking or jogging.

While you're out, stop by the U.S. Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, the largest of its kind in the world—and Ohio's top tourist attraction—or take in any of the more than 100 fairs and festivals in the area each year. You can also visit the National Afro-American Museum and Cultural Center, the Boonshoft Museum of Discovery or the Dayton Art Institute.

The Raiders consider the whole Miami Valley to be their home as they often visit schools and hospitals throughout the area.

Dear Sir,

On behalf of the Fairborn Parks and recreation Advisory Board, we would like to extend to you a very big THANK YOU.

The basketball tickets you provided for our Pennies for Trees Campaign have gone over very well with the children. Some of them received them today, and their excitement was unbelievable! They can hardly wait until February to attend the game.

Another part of this THANK YOU must go to three young men on the basketball team: Bruno Peterson, Joe Bill, and Tom Hope. They came to the school and personally handed out the tickets. The children were in awe, and your fellows were the nicest gentlemen to these children. They spent one hour of quality time with them...something these kids won't forget very soon.

Thank you ever so much, and please pass the word on to the coach.

Media Notes

Following the Raiders will be easier than ever this year. First, search the Web for more information than you'll ever need, starting with the Raiders Official Web site www.wsuraiders.com. Rosters, records, bios and stats can be found there with a few simple keystrokes.

Next, call the toll-free Raider Hotline 24 hours a day at 1-888-RAIDERS (1-888-724-3377). This free phone call will have the latest results of all Raider action.

Credentials

Season credentials will be issued to local reporters, columnists, etc. prior to the first game. If you have not received a season pass in the past, you must contact the Sports Information Office. Game-by-game passes will be issued for as-needed situations, depending on available space. These passes must be requested at least three days in advance of the game and will be distributed at entrance #9 off parking lot #9 in the rear of the Nutter Center. PLEASE NOTE THAT PRESS PARKING AND SEATING IS LIMITED.

Photography

Passes will be handled in a similar fashion as explained above. Still photographers and video photographers are limited to the base line or the concourse level. Team videographers may videotape the game from platforms on the concourse level. Still photographers with questions, please call the WSU Photographer at (937) 775-3388.

Parking

A limited number of parking passes will be issued to local media, while visiting media will be added to the gate list at the parking lot #9 entrance in the rear of the Nutter Center. PLEASE NOTE THAT PARKING SPACE IS LIMITED.

Telephones

A limited number of phones will be available in the Greg Gahrns Memorial Press Room just off the main playing floor. These have been set up for collect or reverse charges only. If you would like to have a phone at court, arrangements need to be made at least a week in advance for a fee. A digital line will have to be made at least a month in advance for a fee.

Services

Stats, notes, flip cards and refreshments will be available in the Greg Gahrns Memorial Press Room before the game. A copy machine is located in the press room, and a fax machine is located in the SID office on the third floor of the Nutter Center. Stats monitors are also available for radio and television broadcasts.

Radio/TV

Any requests to broadcast WSU games by radio or television must be set up through Bob Noss.

Interviews

Interviews during the week must be set up in advance through the sports information office. Media may come to practice and talk to players before or after practice but may not contact the student-athletes outside of pre-arranged times. PLEASE NOTE THAT HOME PHONE NUMBERS WILL NOT BE GIVEN OUT. Coach Schilling may be contacted Monday through Friday, 1-2:30 p.m., at (937) 775-2835.

Post-Game Interviews

Following a cooling off period, the visiting coach and players (if requested) will briefly address the media in the press room, depending upon radio obligations. The visiting coach will be followed by Wright State players and Ed Schilling. Media needing an immediate quote from Coach Schilling may attend a post-game radio show broadcast through the arena.
